Christian spends most of his holidays with his grandmother in the French countryside. He learns on these holidays and visits to places of interest, of the history of the region and the legends and fables that have made this country so beautiful and so fascinating. Daisy the Superdog, is his constant companion on all his adventures in France and she can magically transform herself into a little girl, full of the talents of a devoted dog but with the attributes of a human as well. This is her story and the way she looks after Christian and becomes part of his life and adventures.

Each chapter is a complete adventure but the whole book is a compendium of the adventures of Christian and Daisy and their learning about French history and culture as they explore this beautiful country.

Each story in the book is designed not only to be interesting but also to teach positive life values to children between the ages of 5 and 11 years. The first story relates the way in which Christian comes to enjoy his first holiday away from his parents, travelling alone by air to France to spend time with his Nan, his feelings and reactions. This is not an easy undertaking for a very shy boy who has never left home before.

Front cover design by Kathy Garren, a very talented artist.
